Burglar and Robbery Alarms

First line of defense

An alarm system can be a great "first line of defense" against an intruder; however, false alarms have a significant affect on the amount of time and resources expended by law enforcement patrol officers.

Whether it is a helium balloon triggering a motion detector, a wrong code entered on an alarm keypad, an accidental push of a panic button, or a door being opened that activates the alarm just because the alarm user forgot to turn off the system, the police are called — over and over again.

Verification of alarm dispatches by alarm monitoring companies really helps; however, the Roseville Police Department responds to an average of ten false alarms per day. That is over 3,600 calls for service per year, roughly 1,800 police man-hours, just to respond to false alarms that were caused by either an employee error or a malfunctioning system.

Curbing the Problem of False Alarms

In an effort to reduce the number of false alarms, the Roseville Police Department has an alarm administrator that oversees the permitting and tracking of alarm systems in the City of Roseville.

The alarm administrator spends twenty hours a week approving new residential and commercial alarm permits, verifying the alarm companies installing the systems are licensed to do business in the City of Roseville, and accurately tracking the calls for service relative to individual alarm systems.

Daily reports are generated that show which systems are having excessive false alarms, as determined by the Roseville Alarm System Ordinance [Chapter 10.64 Roseville Municipal Code (RMC)], which is available on our City website.

Alarm holders are entitled to three (3) free false alarms in a twelve month period.

The fine for a fourth false alarm is $75. After that, all false alarm responses are $100. Those fines are doubled for false robbery or panic activations.

The ordinance also allows for the suspension of an alarm permit under certain circumstances.

If you have any questions relative to burglar/robbery alarm systems and how to use them effectively, please call 916.774-5093.
